About RAVI

Ravi is a global keynote speaker and cultural diplomat whose philosophies and strategies have empowered businesses, educators, and over a million people throughout the Americas, Europe, Middle East, and Asia to bridge generational and cultural divides.

He works with the U.S. Department of State and its embassies to create cross-cultural engagement in the world's most vulnerable regions. Ravi went to Iraq and Lebanon in 2017 to conduct songwriting and cultural entrepreneurship programs, Indonesia in 2016 to create a songwriting camp bridging the most severe cultural and religious divides, and Russia in 2015 to deliver keynotes on artist-entrepreneurship and youth leadership.

For nearly a decade, Ravi has been a partner of Shanti Bhavan Children's Project in India — a non-sectarian boarding school providing a holistic upbringing in a high-quality educational setting for the poorest of the poor, and also the subject of a 2017 Netflix documentary, Daughters of Destiny.

His worldwide visibility skyrocketed as the guitarist for triple Grammy nominee, Hanson, whose massive fan base of the earliest millennials catapulted Ravi to the stages of the White House, Madison Square Garden, Tonight Show, Good Morning America, and Saturday Night Live. Simon & Schuster published his memoir, Dancin' with Hanson, and he has authored over a hundred articles for major magazines.

Ravi is the first American born member of India's Nehru-Gandhi family that created and governed the world's largest democracy for over 40 years.

Ravi's journey as a rock star, aviator, and cultural diplomat provides unique insight into the future under millennial leadership. He empowers his audiences with cultural competency, tools to foster world peace, and an entrepreneurial mindset in an age of globalization and artificial intelligence.

CUSTOMIZED KEYNOTES

Millennial Mojo

They are the largest and will take the lead, but all generations must collaborate to redesign education, business, and human capital for the future.

"Millennials provide a unique opportunity to grow out of humanity's greatest social injustices and achieve world peace in the process, if we support them."

Cultural Competency in a World of Globalization

With Globalization and A.I., how do we create cultural competency during a time of cultural dilution and shrinking job markets? "It's not about teaching cultural competency, but un-teaching cultural incompetency. We are born with open minds and curiosity."

Turning Passion Into Profession

What are the essential ingredients for career growth, staying relevant in an unpredictable future, and creating positive change in the world?

"Entrepreneurship is a mindset, not a business model."
